PREFACE — ABOUT LALGUDI CONSTITUENCY

Lalgudi is the 143rd Assembly Constituency of Tamil Nadu, located in the Tiruchirappalli (Trichy) district. It is one of the most historically significant and politically active constituencies in the Cauvery delta region of central Tamil Nadu. The constituency encompasses the town of Lalgudi and the surrounding rural areas along the banks of the River Cauvery, making agriculture — particularly rice and sugarcane cultivation — the primary livelihood of its residents.

The constituency covers a diverse geographical area including the Lalgudi Town Panchayat, several revenue villages, and over 40 distinct ward areas. Villages such as Reddimangudi, Thachankurichi, Mahilambadi, Puduruthamanur, Puvalur, Sirumayangudi, Keelamarimangalam, Manakkal, Ariyur, and Lalgudi (TP) itself form the backbone of the constituency. A total of 300 polling stations served the electorate across these regions during the 2021 election.

Lalgudi has historically been a DMK stronghold, reflecting the broader political landscape of Tiruchirappalli district. The constituency was represented in the 16th Tamil Nadu Legislative Assembly by the DMK candidate. The 2021 election witnessed keen competition primarily between the Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam (DMK) and the All India Anna Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam (AIADMK), with the Naam Tamilar Katchi (NTK) emerging as a notable third force.

The 2021 Tamil Nadu Legislative Assembly elections were held on April 6, 2021, as part of the general elections to elect 234 Members of the Legislative Assembly (MLAs). In Lalgudi, a total of 14 candidates contested the election. The voter turnout stood at 79.1%, with 1,72,589 votes polled out of 2,18,131 registered electors — a strong participation rate reflecting the democratic engagement of Lalgudi's citizens.

This report presents a comprehensive analysis of the 2021 election results for the Lalgudi constituency. It includes party-wise vote shares, polling station-level data for all 300 stations, candidate performance summaries, and a concluding analysis of the political trends observed. The data has been compiled directly from official Election Commission of India records and is intended for research, reference, and public circulation.

CONCLUSION

Lalgudi Constituency — 2021 Election Analysis

Overall Election Outcome

The 2021 Tamil Nadu Legislative Assembly election in Lalgudi constituency resulted in a clear and decisive victory for the Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam (DMK). The DMK candidate, A. Soundarapandian, secured 83,264 votes — representing a commanding 48.3% of all valid votes cast. The winning margin of 15,652 votes over the AIADMK runner-up, D.R. Dharmaraj (67,612 votes, 39.2%), reflects the strong mandate given to DMK by the voters of Lalgudi. This result was consistent with the DMK's state-wide sweep in 2021, which saw the party return to power in Tamil Nadu after a 10-year gap.

Station-Level Dominance

Of the 300 polling stations in Lalgudi, DMK won 248 stations while AIADMK secured leads in 52 stations. DMK's dominance was spread across the constituency — from the urban areas of Lalgudi Town to the rural pockets of Thachankurichi, Reddimangudi, and Mahilambadi. AIADMK's pockets of strength were concentrated in certain stations, particularly around polling station 36 (where AIADMK secured a 91-vote lead) and stations 238-239 in the eastern part of the constituency. Several stations were decided by razor-thin margins — notably Polling Station 4 (margin of 1 vote), PS 243 (1 vote), PS 264 (1 vote), and PS 265 (0 votes — a tie), illustrating how every single vote counted in those areas.

Third Party Performance

Naam Tamilar Katchi (NTK), contesting under the Sugarcane Farmer symbol, emerged as the clear third force in Lalgudi with 16,134 votes — capturing 9.4% of the total vote share. Candidate I. Malar Tamil Prabha secured consistent support across the constituency, particularly in stations with higher youth and agricultural worker populations. While NTK did not win any polling stations outright, their vote share is significant and reflects the growing support for the party in rural Tamil Nadu. The Amma Makkal Munnetra Kazagam (AMMK), contesting as a breakaway AIADMK faction, received 2,913 votes (1.7%), indicating limited support for the splinter party in this constituency.

Voter Participation

The 2021 election in Lalgudi recorded a voter turnout of 79.1%, with 1,72,589 out of 2,18,131 registered electors casting their votes. This strong turnout reflects the democratic awareness and political engagement of the constituency's population. NOTA (None of the Above) received 1,200 votes, representing 0.7% of total votes — a notable indicator of voter dissatisfaction with the available candidates. The election was conducted peacefully across all 300 polling stations with zero reported rejected ballots at the booth level.

Political Significance

The 2021 Lalgudi result reinforced the constituency's historical alignment with Dravidian politics, particularly with the DMK. The election also highlighted the continued relevance of the Cauvery delta region's agricultural concerns — water rights, sugarcane pricing, and rural employment — as key electoral issues. The significant NTK vote share suggests that younger voters and those disillusioned with traditional two-party dynamics are seeking alternatives. For political analysts and party workers, the micro-level station data in this report provides invaluable insight into geographical voting patterns that will shape electoral strategy for future elections.

Final Remarks

This report has been compiled using official data from the Election Commission of India and is intended for research, reference, and public awareness purposes. The polling station-wise data presented herein represents the complete and verified results for all 300 booths in the Lalgudi 143rd Assembly Constituency. Political parties, researchers, journalists, and citizens of Lalgudi are encouraged to use this data to better understand the democratic process and the will of the electorate as expressed in the 2021 Tamil Nadu Legislative Assembly Election.
